A wolgast reigns favorite, and ret Tem Jones, former manager of Weignet, gives out the information that he has 'quit' Wolgast because Wolgant signed with Murphy without consulting Despite His Poor Showing, in Jeans.

If this is true Jones must think that the past made a mistake in agreeing to that humphy, and after the bout what is left of Wolgast's reputation and drawing power won't be worth wasting

For the Murphy, and that the egreement for the Murphy fight was the first piece of susiness Wolgast bandied for himself.

Wolgast and Jones certainly were afraid of Europhy when Wolgast held the title, for neither would even talk about Harlem Tommy. He was the one man Wolgast publicly barred. Of course Ad privately barred McFarland, by side-stepping him. But he was always ready McCarron made about as poor a showing as any fighter could have done. Instead of tearing in at Kurts, McCarron merely stood back and posed, and the blows he did land were put over at close quartable of thinking it wasn't in Johnny. I was always of the opinion be a very heavy favorite ever K. Q. Of course the fact that this is Brown's first long fight may have something to the front with two schemes to help arbiters in making decisions.
